The personal experiences related in this book have moved hearts for many years. Both young and old resolved to be obedient to God's commandments and trusted their lives to His keeping.

Personal letters that they wrote to their families declared their love for the Saviour to be the driving force that saw beyond the present to the infinitely greater joy they wanted to experience in eternity.

Günther Pietz was just 18 years old when he wrote to his parents, "Dear Father and Mother, I ask that you not shed one tear for my sake; for the hope, love, and happiness which I had before I left home I still have now. And when sadness creeps up on me, I pray, as the publican did, 'God, be merciful unto me, a sinner.' Who will stand before God? Only he who has a pure heart. Therefore, dear parents, please forgive me for all the things that were not right that I did in my youth. About the death sentence I don't have any thoughts at all. I know the Lord is with me, and such peace and rest I have not had in my heart as in these last days."

And Anton Brugger wrote to his fiancée, Esther: "Since our hearts' desires to be united together here on earth are now made impossible by this sad thing, we will simply comfort ourselves with the precious hope of seeing each other again with the Lord. I trust in the grace and mercy of the Saviour, that He will accept me and graciously pardon my sins. Be ALSO FAITHFUL to the Lord Jesus, and love and serve Him with all your strength. Don't be dismayed, and be comforted. After the Lord's coming no one will be able to separate us any more, and no suffering and pain can come to us."

This book is very valuable for each of us personally and also as a gift to share.
